Dear Sir:

I am enclosing a check for $5.00 to cover cost of your book
"Photographic Whitewash".

Since the issuance of the Warren Report, I have tried to find all the literature written that disputes categorically, the "one assassin theory". It has been a long, slow and tedious search.

I wonder if I might impose upon you to furnish me with a source/and or sources, where I might obtain any of the following books:

"Oswald, Assassin or Fall Guy?"	- Joachim Joesten
"Six Seconds in Dallas"	- Josiah Thompson
" The Second Oswald"	- Richard H. Popkin
" Forgive my Grief"	- Penn Jones
"Who killed Kennedy"	- Thomas Buchanan
"The Oswald Affair"	- Leo Savage
"The Two Assassins"	- Hartogs & Freeman
" The Red Roses of Dallas"	- Neurin E. Gun

I may be asking the impossible of you, but I would appreciate any information you might be able to give me, that would enable me to find these books.

Thank you for your very kind attention to this letter.

Very sincerely yours

(Mrs. Ernest) Brunetto

Dear Mrs. Brunetto,

Frankly, except as collectors' items, I regard none of the works you list as solid and dependable.

In any event, all but one are not available.

The exception is Penn Jones, whose complete address is Midlothian, Texas. I think he has three different books by the same title, each a compilation of editorials and articles from his small weekly newspaper.

Also not available but very worthwhile, a really excellent work, is Sylvia Meagher's Accessories After the Fact. It was published by Bobbs, Merrill.

It may be available second hand. If you do not have it, I recommend it as highly as one can.

I don't think the Hartogs and Freeman book disputes the one-assassin theory.

If you continue your quest for the Gun book, his first name is Nerin, not Neurin.

I presume I told you of my book on the king assassination.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
